

Glendale Asbestos Legal Questions And Answers

Q: Who is at risk of asbestos exposure in Glendale?

Ans: People who have worked in industries that use or produce asbestos products, such as construction, shipbuilding, and manufacturing, are at the highest risk of asbestos exposure. However, even those who have not worked directly with asbestos can be at risk through secondhand exposure, such as washing the clothes of someone who works in asbestos manufacturing plant.

Q: What are the laws and regulations regarding asbestos in Glendale?

Ans: In Glendale, as in the rest of California, there are strict laws and regulations in place to protect workers and the public from asbestos exposure. The California Division of Occupational Safety and Health (Cal/OSHA) has established guidelines for the safe handling and removal of asbestos in the workplace.

Additionally, the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has regulations for the disposal of asbestos-containing materials.

Q: Can I file a lawsuit if I have been exposed to asbestos in Glendale?

Ans: If you have been diagnosed with an asbestos-related illness, you may be eligible to file a lawsuit against the responsible parties. This could include your employer, the manufacturer of the asbestos-containing product, or the owner of the property where you were exposed to asbestos.

Q: What is the statute of limitations for filing an asbestos-related lawsuit in Glendale?

Ans: The statute of limitations refers to the time limit within which a lawsuit must be filed. In California, for asbestos-related lawsuits, statute the of limitations is 2 years from the date of diagnosis or discovery of the illness. It is crucial to consult with an attorney as soon as possible, as missing this deadline may result in your case being dismissed.

Q: How much compensation can I receive for an asbestos-related illness in Glendale?

Ans: The amount of compensation you can receive for an asbestos-related illness in Glendale depends on various factors, such as the severity of your illness, your medical expenses, lost wages, and pain and suffering. An experienced asbestos attorney can help you determine the potential value of your case.

Q: Can my family also file a lawsuit if I have passed away due to an asbestos-related illness?

Ans: Yes, your family members may be eligible to file a wrongful death lawsuit if you have passed away due to an asbestos-related illness. This lawsuit can seek compensation for the loss of income, funeral expenses, and the pain and suffering of the deceased.